Religious News and Views

By RUDOLF MARTENS

Since the turn of the year, the Wartburg church has looked forward to the publication of the new Standard Version of the New Testament. This great work has been carried on since 1923 by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of the Protestant denominations associated in that body. The council has been composed of many eminent Bible scholars, nine of whom worked specially on this version. They include three American Protestants, Prof. Walter Cassel, Prof. Frederick C. Grant, and the late Prof. James Moffatt. The Wartburg church has been particularly interested in this version, for it is the highest authority in the English language. It is truly encouraging to see that the religious press of the world are so generally agreed to be behind their intelligence as has already occurred in the case of the secular authorities, for the former are asking the Germans to share in the World Council of Churches.

Washington Bar Rais
 "Although personal representations were made by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, President of the World Council of Churches, to the 'highest authority' in Washington, the ban on sending relief supplies, papers, or even mail to the American zone of occupation is still in full force. But that is not the full measure of the administration's savagery. The American 'highest authority' refused to allow the National Y. M. C. A. to send relief supplies into the British zone even when the British authorities have said they would welcome the distribution of such goods, clothing, and medical supplies. This savagery is the result of the British authorities' approval of the British 'highest authority' in the British zone. It is still strictly under rationing in the British zone, and food from the depleted stock. She would be glad to have assistance in keeping up the physical condition of the people in her zone." (Christian Science Monitor, Feb. 9, 1936)

we are the personal followers of the Lord Jesus is the center of our faith and if we have Him only, we have all things.

"The Art of Hearing" was the topic Clarence Wegman chose for his Tuesday night chapel devotion. For his talk he said that it was rare to hear what, than what better purpose can they serve than to hear the Word of God. The teacher presents in sermons and lectures what is preached or we will be seeds sown on the rocky ground.

Friday's devotion was led by Russell Shilling. In the words of Roman 12:1 he further explained our services to God. We must present our bodies as living sacrifice and must apply ourselves to the work we have to do in a world that has its own darkness.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Waverly has averaged nearly 100 at its Sunday services so far this year.

HOW MUCH EDUCATION?

As our country has developed from a few dependent colonies into one of the greatest nations of the world, the ideas of its citizens about many things, have changed. In colonial times and during the early history of the United States as an independent nation, the bulk of the population was engaged in education in the home. Gradually our public school system was built up, and institutions of higher learning were founded. In the process of development to our former ideas concerning the limits of an education changed also.

An individual who had gone through eight grades of school was considered fairly well-educated, prior to World War I. In the post-war period the American high school reached its highest popularity. A high school education was considered necessary for everyone. Now, however, interest is focused on higher education, which is being pursued by the federal government as it sends many of our young men and women out of the armed forces into college.

No longer does the high school prepare its students for a vocation or a place in the business world. Instead, our high school training has come to be merely preparatory for college.

When we left high school, we were urged to go on to college instead of forsaking our education for a position in business or industry. We were told that the long run, we would receive great benefit by taking the opportunity to gain more education.

Now that we are attending college, we have reached another educational crossroad. The question in our minds is, "How much education do we need to prepare us for service to others?" Should we leave school after one or two years to go into teaching, business, parish work, or some other profession, or should we go on with our education? And then after receiving our B. A. degree, are we through, or should we go on further?

The need in some fields is pressing, but we must consider our own good and the good of our profession from the long-range viewpoint. For those who have the physical, mental, and financial capabilities, leaving school at this stage of our education would be the same effect in relation to potentialities as joining a section crew instead of coming to college would have had several years ago. Potentialities in higher education are limitless!

Our own American Lutheran Church is calling for leaders who are more than only a business man. The church is calling for authors, teachers, and other intellectual leaders. There is need. Let us not bury our talents but invest them wisely in education—Christian higher education. Were you going to school one or two years—get your B. A. Were you headed for a B. A. or B. S.—why not make it an M. A.—push a bit harder and try to reach the ultimate in education. L. E. R.

CONCERNING A VITAL MATTER

A well-known classic contains a famous simile concerning "rumor." This particular work speaks of "rumor" as being a large many-eyed bird whose prime purpose in life is to be about other people's business with his numerous eyes always on the alert for gossip. Have you met the old bird? He's still here, you know!

That's revealing the situation quite bluntly. I would say, it seems that even in 23 C. C. the gossip-mongers and rumor-mongers are on the job. It also appears that our Vermont realized the situation and made no effort to correct his sentiments about the matter. From his passage we may receive inspiration to question ourselves. I would hardly say that any of us are in the exaggerated state of a thousand-eyed bird, but we all are guilty of fault-finding and gossiping. Twenty faults of our neighbors get to be an obsession with us. What care we for hurt feelings and bad relationships between friends? No matter what we ourselves may answer to that question, we all feel deep down in our hearts the desire to shun these habits, in order that the talk concerning our fellow students may be constructive.

May it be a watchword with us to stop and think before we criticize! J. J. S.

son and since will win for us in ward peace, the peace which passeth all understanding." "What's Next?" was the question put by Dr. John Mattes at the Tuesday convocation. The future must be prepared for, and we, as the speaker pointed out, "face today as it is and plan for tomorrow. There is no room for worry over the trifles in our life and not enough planning. We know the presence of evil in the world—but what is being planned for tomorrow? The juvenile delinquency, showing it to be one of the major problems of evil in our world face and solve, were cited. "The challenge of the church today—now as ever, the church is the one answer to the problem of now, for tomorrow. We must face it and solve, with an appeal to Wartburg's young men to accept the special challenge which the ministry holds for them."

Convocations were well attended and those in charge of the program expressed satisfaction with the enthusiasm and appreciation with which Religious Emphasis Week was met at Wartburg College.

DUHAWE FIVE TOO STRONG FOR KNIGHT DEFENSE

The Wartburg Knights lost their fourth Iowa Conference game to the powerful Loras quintet Feb. 7 by the lopsided score of 101-41. This set a new conference scoring record compared to the previous high total of 130 points for the total score in one game.

The Dubuques wasted no time in getting an early lead as they hit for a point in the first three minutes before the Knights could tally a lone marker. The decided head advantage enabled the Loras boys to control the ball well, and they built up a 47-19 margin at half time.

In the second half Paul Proctor was the main cove in the Loras scoring machine as the Dubuques continued to flood the basket and run the score up. The boys hit a fast pace right after the intermission and collected 40 points while the Knights could only manage 9 points. With only 45 seconds to go the Dubuques led 89-21 and Paul Proctor dropped in 3 charity tosses to break the 101 mark.

The Loras defense was fairly well divided with Proctor hitting 25 points, Sid Smith 19, and Mickey Marty collected 18 points. Ted Olmstead added 12 points to his total with 9 of his points coming in the second half.

Knights Lose

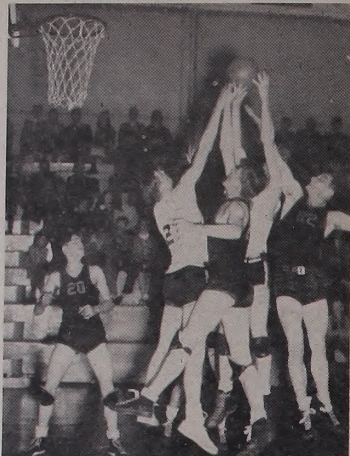

Lead in 2nd Half

The Penn Quakers from Oskaloosa bridged the Wartburg quakers' fourth conference loss on Feb. 7 by a 81-41 score on the Oskaloosa court. The Quakers evened the series as the Knights had previously beaten Penn on the local court Feb. 4.

In the early minutes of the game the Quakers looked as though the Knights were off to post a win as they jumped into a 10-2 lead with about 4 minutes gone. However, the spurt died out, Penn boys closed the gap, and went on to assume a 10-12 margin with about 5 minutes remaining before the half. They managed to stay ahead till the half and went to the dressing room holding a 24-23 lead.

After the half Penn led and the one point margin, and throughout the second half they managed to stay in front of the Knights by about a 10 point margin. Lady Lechner was fouled out.

Dutchmen Hand Luckless Knights 55-30 Defeat

For Wartburg about mid-way in the second half Paul Koch was forced to the sidelines with 3 minutes left.

The Knights kept Jack Oxenrieder fairly well tied up all the evening as he counted only 3 field goals but collected 7 free throws. D. Smith added 12 points to the Quaker cause. Ted Olmstead nudged up 18 points while Lady Lechner slipped in 11 points for Wartburg's honors.

NORSEMEN WIN BY FIFTEEN POINT MARGIN

The Wartburg Knights suffered their third defeat at the hands of the Norsemen on Jan. 26. The latter squad was composed largely of newly enlisted vets, some of whom had played for the Norsemen in previous years.

The game got off to a flying start, something like the Iowa-Minnesota game, with the score see-sawing back and forth to make the count 15 all. After this the Luther boys pulled into a small lead largely due to the efforts of Norm Everson and Fritz who hit the bucket regularly. The Knights closed the gap to a 22-23 deficit at the end of the first half.

In the middle of the last half the Norsemen steadily built up their lead to a comfortable margin of 32-35. From here on the Luther boys could only watch Coach Hain Petersen of Luther substitute freely in the remainder of the game.

Norm Everson of Luther was the leading scorer of the evening with 23 points on 10 field goals and 3 free throws. Everson was also back in 1942 while playing for Luther Olmstead paced the Knights with 21 points, 11 of them coming at the free throw line. The Knights had the usual height disadvantage in work as the Norsemen averaged a 6' 7" center.

In a certain-raiser the Wartburg "B" squad was beaten by the Seminary squad 47-20. The Sem boys were led by Lowell Koch with 19 points and John Keller with 18. The Knights were paced by Reyolds with 14 points. The Sem has a smooth winning outfit with four of last year's Knights squad on the team.

Sideline Spotlight

by Monk

With only about a month of the current basketball season left, the Knights face a tough schedule all the way as they have games with Central, Loras, Dubuque, Luther, and Simpson. The last four have won their initial contests from the Knights.

The weekend trip to Dubuque proved to be a rather disastrous one, especially the Loras game. The Dubuques really have a powerful parade by winning 101 points against the boys, with no individual player scoring more than 22 points. This set a new Iowa Conference scoring record for one game. The Loras five had beaten Penn 80-44 only a few days earlier.

By dropping the Penn game on Thursday night at Oskaloosa we are reminded of the team two years ago, which beat Penn here 52-30 and then next week at 7-41 at Oskaloosa. Maybe there is a link somewhere along the line. The Knights pretty well tied up Jack Oxenrieder, Penn's ace scorer with only 5 field goals for the evening. However, Jack had 17 chances at the free throw line, but he was only able to connect on 7 of the tries.

Meanwhile Ted Olmstead took over the lead in the conference scoring race as he hit for 18 points. Ted right now, including the Penn game, has totaled 100 points in 4 conference games in an even 20 point average per game. Oxenrieder has 171 points in 10 games. Ted led the conference last year with an 18.3 average.

We're glad to see Paul Koch back in uniform for the Knights. The Knights are still looking for health somewhere as most of the conference foes seem to hold a decided advantage in that field.

Let's back the Knights all the way and really show a little spirit in the remaining three home games win or lose!

OLMSTEAD PACES KNIGHTS AT D. U.

The Knights basketball were handed their third straight conference loss on Feb. 4 by Dubuque U. on the latter's floor. The Knights were on the rebound from their solid kicking by Loras on the previous night, but the boys were unable to muster a victory despite a hard fought contest.

The game proved to be a close affair at the very beginning with both teams matching baskets. The Knights forged into a 11-10 lead with 3 minutes gone in the first half. However the Spartans connected for several quick buckets to command a 15-12 margin midway in the first period, and then pushed their lead to 26-18 with only a few minutes remaining before the intermission. The Knights fought back desperately and played the gap to 26-24 as the first half ended.

The second half proved to be the downfall for the Knights as Dubuque went on to increase their lead as time ran out. Three of the Knights regulars were forced out.
